Toastmasters International was founded in 1924 in America by Dr. Ralph C. Smedley. Today there are more than 15,000 clubs worldwide, including over 100 in Ireland.

Each new Toastmaster receives manuals and resources including a copy of the 'Communications and Leadership Manual'. This sets out a programme of 10 speech projects to be given at club meetings.

The different type of speeches within this manual help develop skills in a variety of areas, including speech planning and organisation, use of voice and confident speech delivery.

Each meeting also has a number of different speaking opportunities. The most popular is the table topics session, where members can deliver a short one minute speech in reply on a variety of subjects.

In the warm, friendly atmosphere of a Toastmasters Club you can gain the confidence in public speaking and exchange ideas with fellow club members.
